

Proper care and maintenance of ceramics and glass

Ceramics and glass

- Proper care and maintenance of your family heirlooms and works of art will ensure that they are available for future generations to enjoy

Ceramics and glass

- The primary means by which ceramics and glass objects deteriorate is through accidental cracking and breaking, often the result of improper handling

Ceramics and glass

- Always overestimate the brittleness and underestimate the strength of an artifact

Ceramics and glass

- Carry one object at a time, and place your hands around the body of the object rather than using an existing handle, rim or spout

Ceramics and glass

- Store and display on a sturdy, level surface that is secure from bumps and jarring; objects should be covered or enclosed to protect them from dirt and dust

Ceramics and glass

- If this is not possible, wrap pieces in acid-free, lignin-free tissue and store in strong, secure acid-free cardboard boxes
- Newspaper should not be used for storage as it can cause discoloration and stains

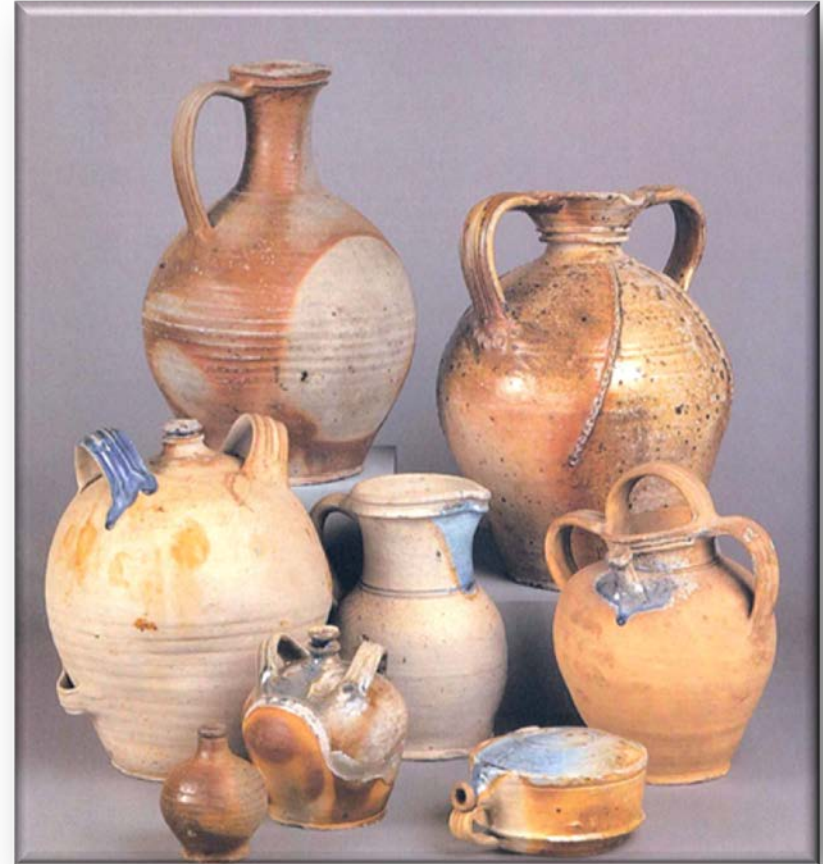

Ceramics and glass

- Ceramics and glass objects should be kept free of dust, debris and oily residues
- In general, it is not a good idea to routinely wash these pieces; it is much better to protect them from dirt

Ceramics and glass

- Porous ceramics, like earthenware, should never be immersed in water

Ceramics and glass

- Leaving liquids inside vessels for long periods of time can damage glass

Any reference to or reproduction of material contained herein should include attribution to MyGenShare.com.

This material may not be reproduced for commercial purposes without permission from the owner.

All trademarks referenced herein are intellectual property of MyGenShare.com.

A production of

MyGenShare.com™

Sharing Information to Join Generations™

© MyGenShare.com 2012. All Rights Reserved.